Headline:
Rain mostly clearing overnight. Sunny spells on Monday.

This Evening and Tonight:
A cloudy start to the evening with outbreaks of rain across the region but this should soon start easing. Cloud breaking to allow clear spells, though a few showers will persist overnight. Winds slowly easing down. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Monday:
A largely dry day with sunny spells but the odd shower, mainly over the north. Thicker cloud building in the west, spreading across the region accompanied with patchy rain, overnight. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Morning rain on Tuesday clearing to leave plenty of sunshine. Wednesday dry with sunny spells. Thursday dry for many but cloudier and breezier. Feeling quite warm in any sunshine.
